Sweetly reclined
Quincy Flint

Capo III
Key C --> D#

A breath of the heavens
A sweet child below
Touched by the rafters
An angel of snow

Now poets and prophets
In false idols find
The strength and the anger
That wisdom belies

Muscari in jaundice
Still cut from the vine
A flower unblossomed
A bitter pink wine

So pray to the father
Have faith in his might
When he pulls back the curtain
He brings in the light

Sweetly Reclined
Sweetly Reclined

Sweetly Reclined
Sweetly Reclined

A lamb of the pasture
Not full one and nine
Through a field made of laughter
She'd frolic and smile

Laughter and dancing
Now silently sleep
All the dreams she was dreaming
Forever she keeps

As soft as the snow falls
As certain as time
She lay gently waiting
In crimson and white

A rose on her bosom
A stone in her eye
Of satin and silver
Her bedroom lined

Sweetly Reclined
Sweetly Reclined

Sweetly Reclined
Sweetly Reclined
