

The wind can only blow
The sun can only shine
But I hear a song and I see a glow
It feels like summer and it tastes like wine

So take me down to the river
Wash away all my sin
I'm come to deliver
And start this old life again

There's a crack down my mirror
A gambler at my side
Our fate is looking ever grimmer
With every priest we pass by

Now the snow is coming down
And I'm sliding down this road
If we don't live to see Austin
Then lay me down soft and low
